PRESS RELEASE

Under One Sky 21 collections and 4,000 artists

Imago Mundi, the collection of contemporary art promoted by Luciano Benetton, on a two-years journey across China departed at the beginning of November 2016 and concluding at the end of December 2018. The exhibition will visit thirteen of the country's major cities. From Lincang in the extreme south to Hohhot in Inner Mongolia, from Urumqi, one of the most important centres on the ancient Silk Road, to Xian, famous for its terracotta soldiers, with a stop, of course, in Beijing: the itinerant exhibition "Under One Sky" is bringing twenty-one collections, which means 4,000 artworks, representing five continents, to the immense Chinese territory and will be hosted in museums, cultural centres and universities.
